

Tinkerine's CEO appointed to Canadian Innovation Board

January 9, 2018 - Tinkerine™ Studios Ltd. (TSXV: TTD, FSE: WKN WB6B and OTC: TKSTF) ("Tinkerine" or the "Company") is pleased to announce Mr. Eugene Suyu, Chief Executive Officer ("CEO") of Tinkerine, has been named to the Government of Canada's Advanced Manufacturing Sounding Board ("AMSB"), an innovative business roundtable made up of industry leaders selected from leading companies across Canada to provide advice to the Deputy Minister of the Department of Industry, Styled Innovation, Science and Economic Development. The AMSB will provide feedback and recommendations for growth to small and medium-sized businesses, and leverage rapid technological change in advanced manufacturing to dramatically strengthen Canada's manufacturing sector.

"Tinkerine's leadership in desktop additive manufacturing technology and education is leading the way for generations of workers to accelerate innovative advanced manufacturing methods for Canadian organizations. Equipping our manufacturing sector with technology and skilled workers provides a solid foundation to increase Canada's manufacturing output faster and more efficiently. I'm proud to represent the team at Tinkerine and excited to share our collective knowledge on adopting new technology to best position Canadian manufacturers moving forward." states CEO Suyu.

The AMSB will review goals and objects on a monthly basis, including items to attract global mandates, technology adoption and scaling up for Canadian business through innovative technology advancements.

Additional information on the AMSB can be viewed on the Government of Canada website at:
