

Tinkerine Partners With FutureBook Yearbooks, North America's Fastest Growing Yearbook Printing and Publishing Company

FutureBook Yearbooks will bundle Tinkerine's award-winning Ditto™ Pro 3D printer as part of its North American educational institutional offerings

Vancouver, B.C. – February 23, 2015 -- Tinkerine™ Studios Ltd. (TSXV: TTD and OTC Pink: TKSTF), Canada's leading manufacturer of desktop 3D printers and 3D printing educational content, today announced a partnership with FutureBook Yearbooks, North America's fastest growing yearbook printing and publishing company.

Tinkerine's Ditto™ Pro will become a feature item in Futurebook Yearbook's Awards Program offering to educational institutions. The Awards Program gives educational institutions an allowance to purchase classroom technology, which will now include 3D printers.

FutureBook Yearbooks CEO Reid Felske stated, "FutureBook Yearbooks believes in inspiring, educating, and empowering students. By partnering with Tinkerine, our mission grows. We are thrilled about this relationship and know that together, our customers will experience boundless creativity, innovation, and excitement."

Tinkerine CEO Eugene Suyu added, "FutureBook Yearbooks is a value added partner that has a significant and expanding footprint in the North American education market. Their focus is highly relevant and complements our vision of educating and training teachers and students about the use and benefits of 3D printing technology".

Tinkerine is committed to partnering with best in class companies like FutureBook Yearbooks that provide high quality, innovative products to the education market backed by strong customer service.
